1
ISSF CONSTITUTION

The International Shooting Sport Federation was founded in 1907 as the “Union Internationale des Federations et Associations Nationales de Tir”, was dissolved in 1915 and reorganized in 1921 under the name of “Union Internationale de Tir”. In 1939, activities were again suspended and the Union was reorganized in 1947 under the name: “International Shooting Union – UIT”. On 15th July 1998 the Union changed its name to the present name “International Shooting Sport Federation”. The Federation title in short form is “ISSF”.

The ISSF is formally recognized by the International Olympic Committee (IOC) as the sole controlling body in the Olympic Movement administering the shooting sport at world level and encompassing its member organizations, who administer the shooting sport at national level. The ISSF intends to develop, promote and protect the Olympic Movement, to observe the provisions of the Olympic Charter of the IOC and to recognize the decisions of the IOC. The ISSF specifically supports a human, manipulation - and doping-free sport and recognizes international and national anti-doping rules, in particular the World Anti-Doping Code.

The ISSF is committed to its responsibility for up-to-date environmental and nature conservation. In recognition of the sustainability mission statement and the declaration of the IOC of Paris in 1994, it is committed to an environmentally friendly and sustainable development of its sport in general and their whole organisation.